GOR Resolution No 306 Establishes TRQ Reallocation

Report Categories:

Approved By:

Prepared By:

Morgan Haas

Report Highlights:

GOR Resolution #306 amends the existing TRQ regime for frozen beef, pork, and poultry by establishing a quota monitoring and reallocation process.

Background:

Resolution #306 amends the GOR Resolution #1021 dated December 16, 2009, "On the Imports of Beef, Pork and Poultry in 2010-2012.” Specifically, it orders the Ministry of Economic Development (MED) and the Ministry of Agriculture (MinAg) to jointly monitor the supply of frozen beef, pork, and poultry, taking into account bans or restrictions that may reduce available supply. If imports from supplier countries do meet 11.5 percent of the annual quota allocation over a two-month period, MED and MinAg shall submit proposals for reallocation to the Subcommittee on Customs-Tariff and Non-Tariff Regulation and Safeguards in Foreign Trade of the Government Commission on Economic Development and Integration. Following the Subcommittee's approval, the Ministry of Industry and Trade (MIT) shall issue import licenses for any other supplying country.

Increased monitoring activities will fall upon the Federal Veterinary and Phytosanitary Service (VPSS), the Federal Service for Consumer Rights Surveillance and Protection (Rospotrebnadzor), and the Federal Customs Service (FCS). Both VPSS and Rospotrebnadzor are to inform MED, MinAg, MIT, and FCS within three days following any such action that results in the ban or restriction of frozen beef, pork, and poultry. The FCS has ten days following each month to report the import volumes of frozen beef, pork, and poultry to MED.

Lower consumption, and therefore lower imports, in the beginning quarter of the year should perennially present complications to the 11.5 percent rule regardless of available supply or enacted restrictions against supplier countries. Below is a monthly import table of 2009 and 2010 trade as a percent of the annual quota.
